CASE STUDY 1

American Express: Value Builder

① The Challenge

Sales professionals were using inconsistent, manual methods to sell value; the business required a digital standard to ensure compliance and efficiency.

② The Leadership

Led user research to uncover opportunities for the B2B sales team, resulting in a $200K+ project to redesign their critical daily sales tool.

③ The Process

Designed the future vision for the platform and led rigorous user testing and validation with 22 users to ensure alignment.

④ The Impact

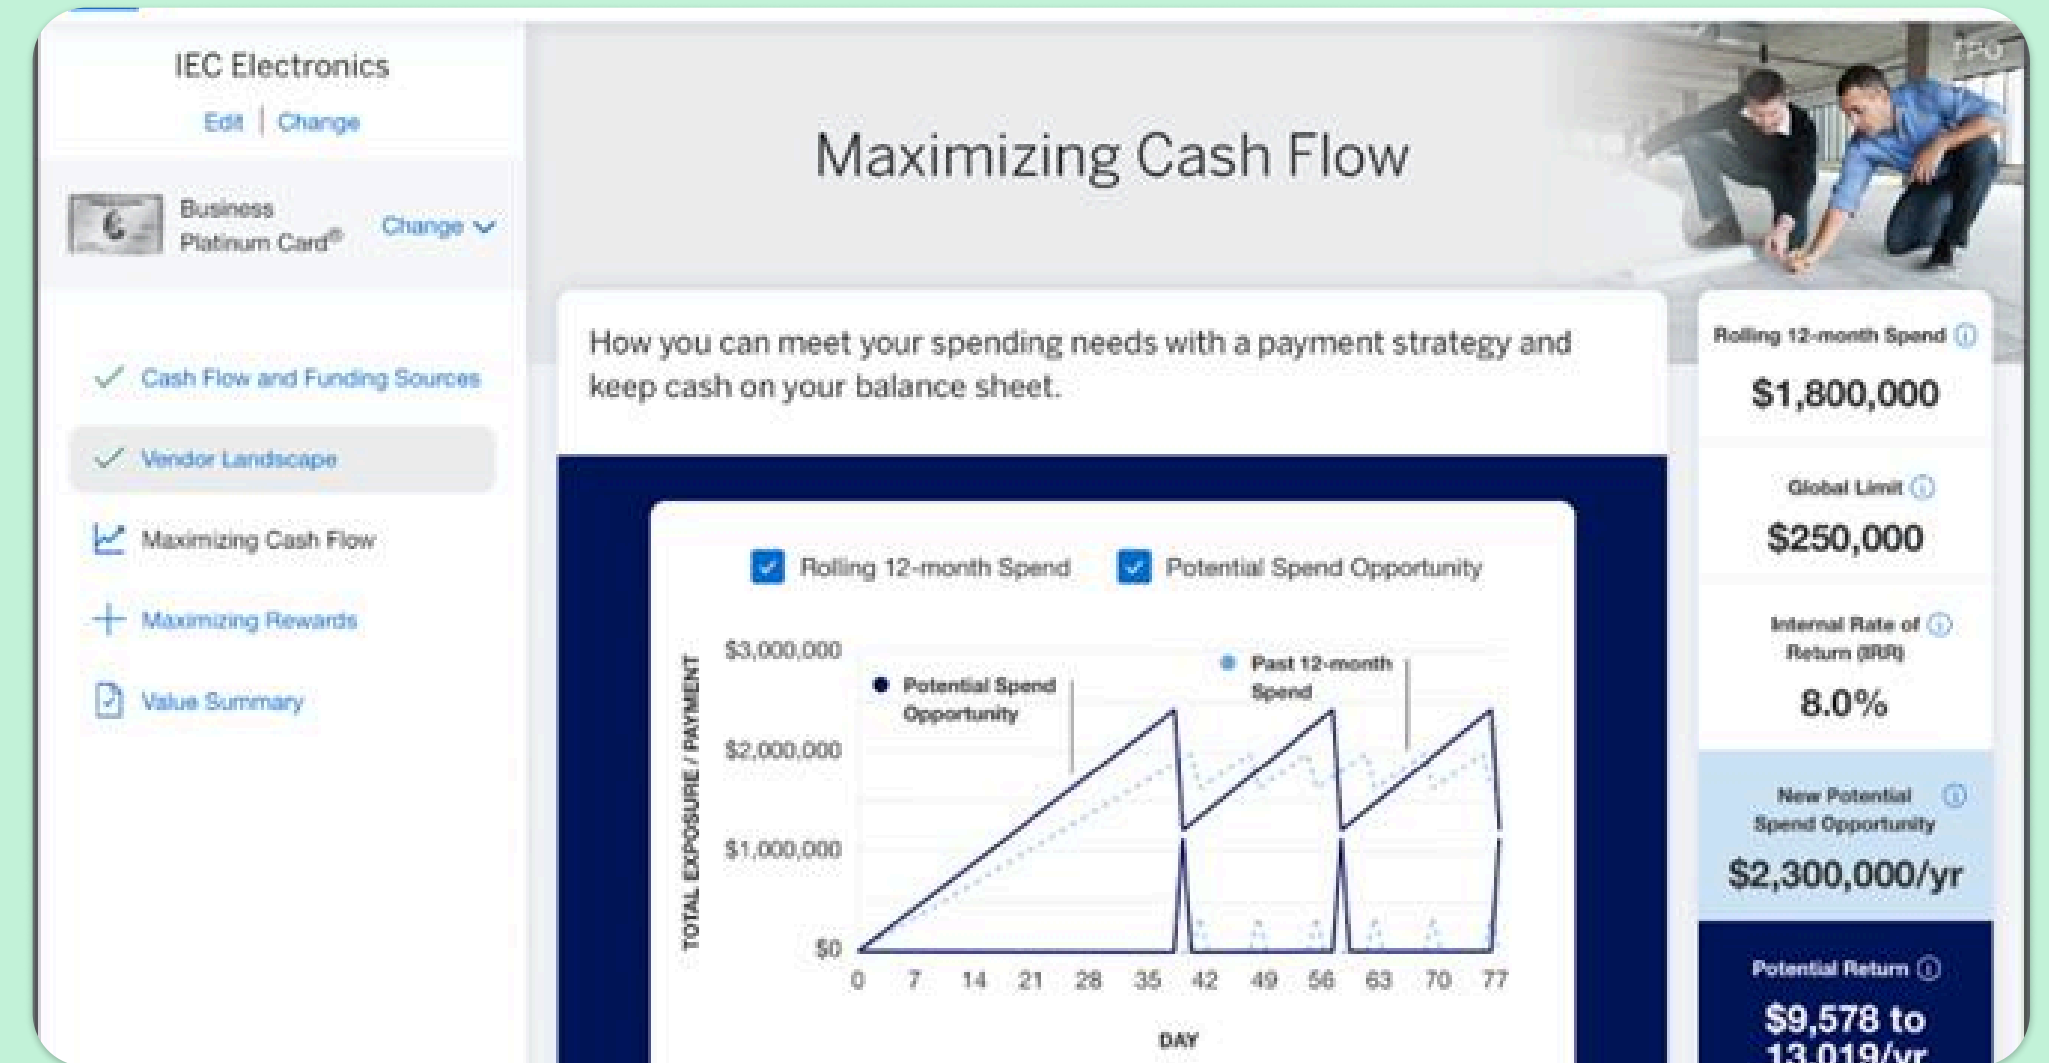

Successfully codified a high-impact sales strategy into a repeatable, compliant digital experience used by hundreds of sales professionals.

Key Stages	Prospecting	Starting Relationship	Building Relationship	Expanding Relationship
Motivation	Gathering as much information as possible	Starting on the right foot	Embedding AMEX into the businesses	Getting more spend on the card
Key Steps	- Researching the company - Understanding the vertical - Gathering case studies	- Walking through needs analysis - Introducing AMEX products and offerings	- Introduce new products - Motivate spend on the card	- Introduce new products - Motivate spend on the card
Challenge	- Knowing what questions to ask client to find pain points - Prepping for needs analysis	- Knowing what information to get from client - Getting vendor file - Understanding client goals – e.g. cash rich or poor	Applying the right value strategy based on the individual clients needs	Showing the exponential value of Amex across multiple products
Existing Tools	Salesforce/Oneforce for finding client revenue and spend	Salesforce for tracking process	- Salesforce for tracking progress - Vendor file to help	- Salesforce for tracking progress - Non client facing homegrown

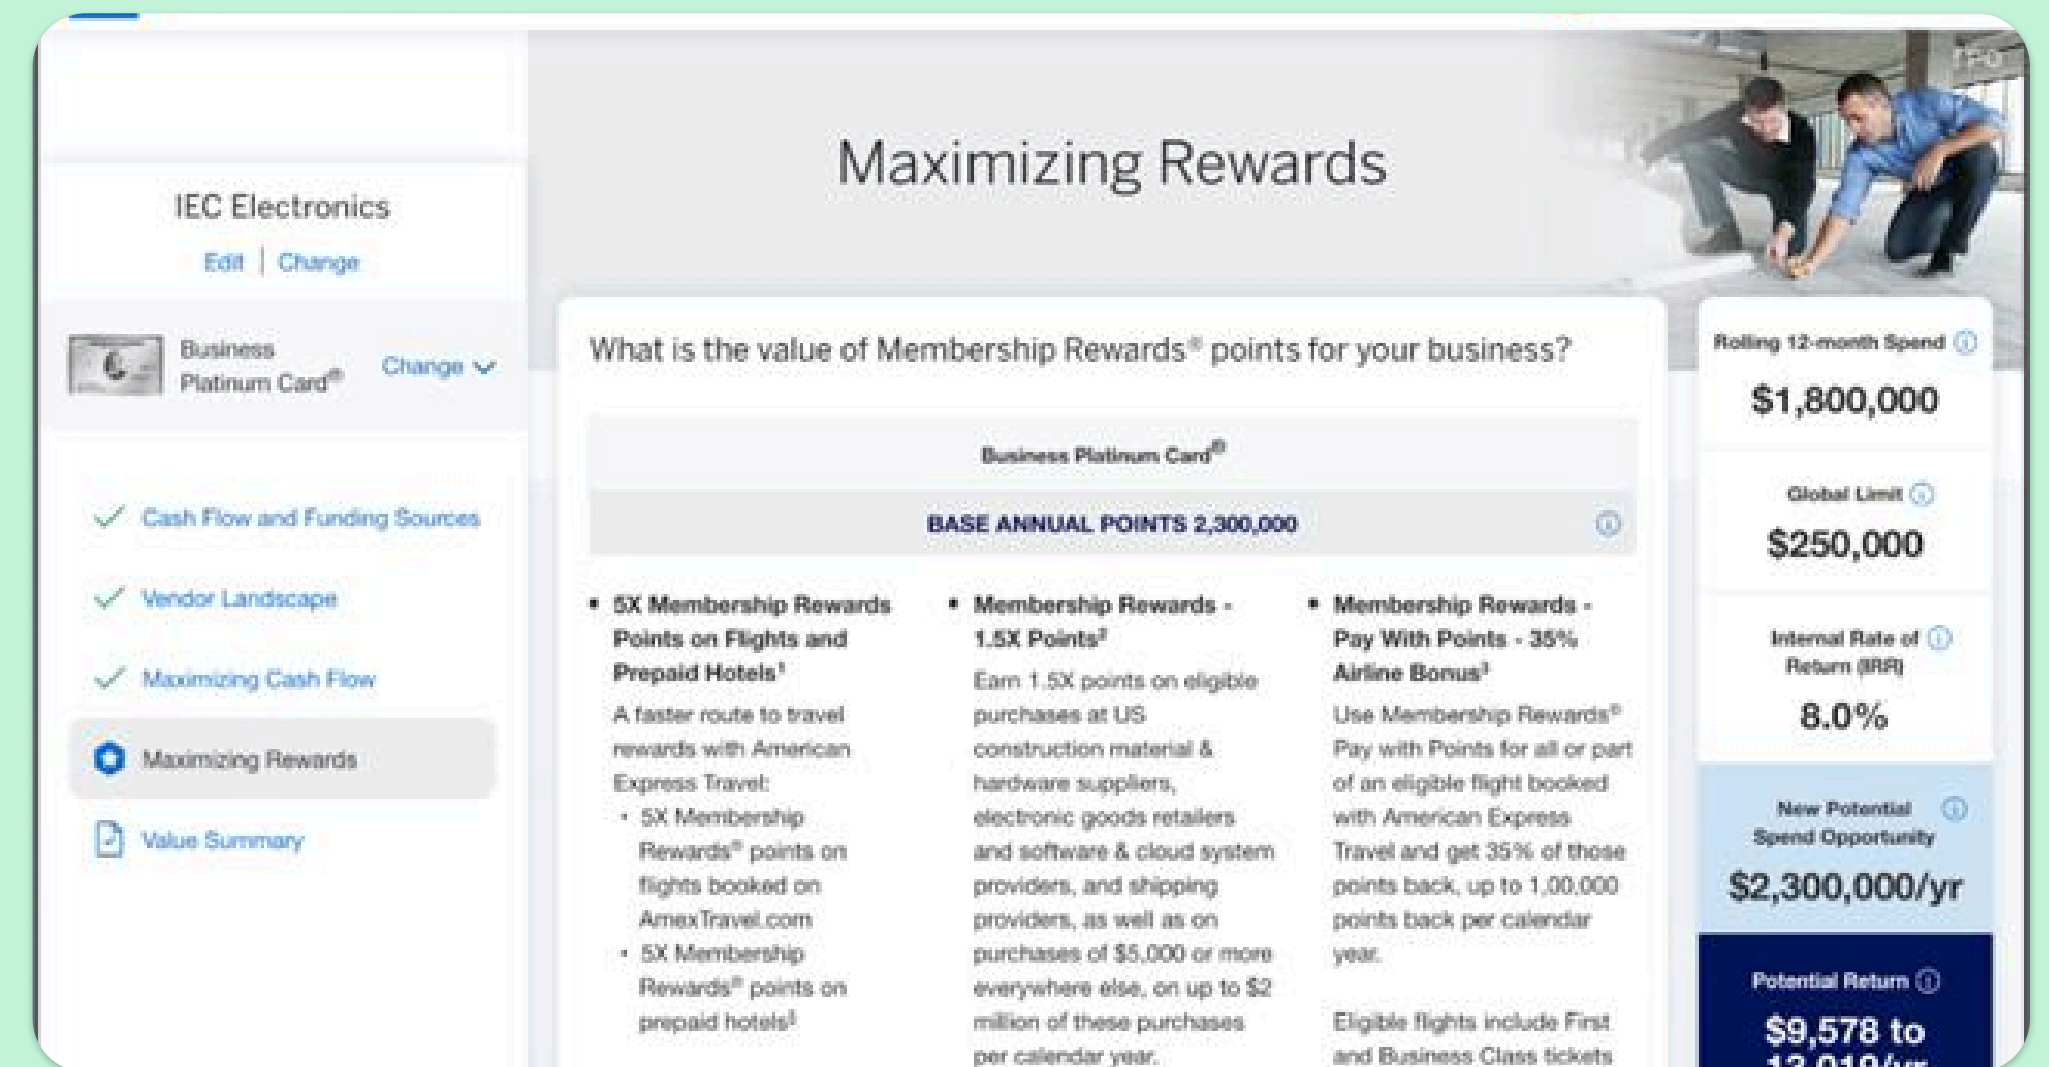

Uncovering the high-level sales process

Starts broad, then narrows

Structured to guide sales conversations, but also allows users to jump around to different sections as the discussion & client needs evolve.

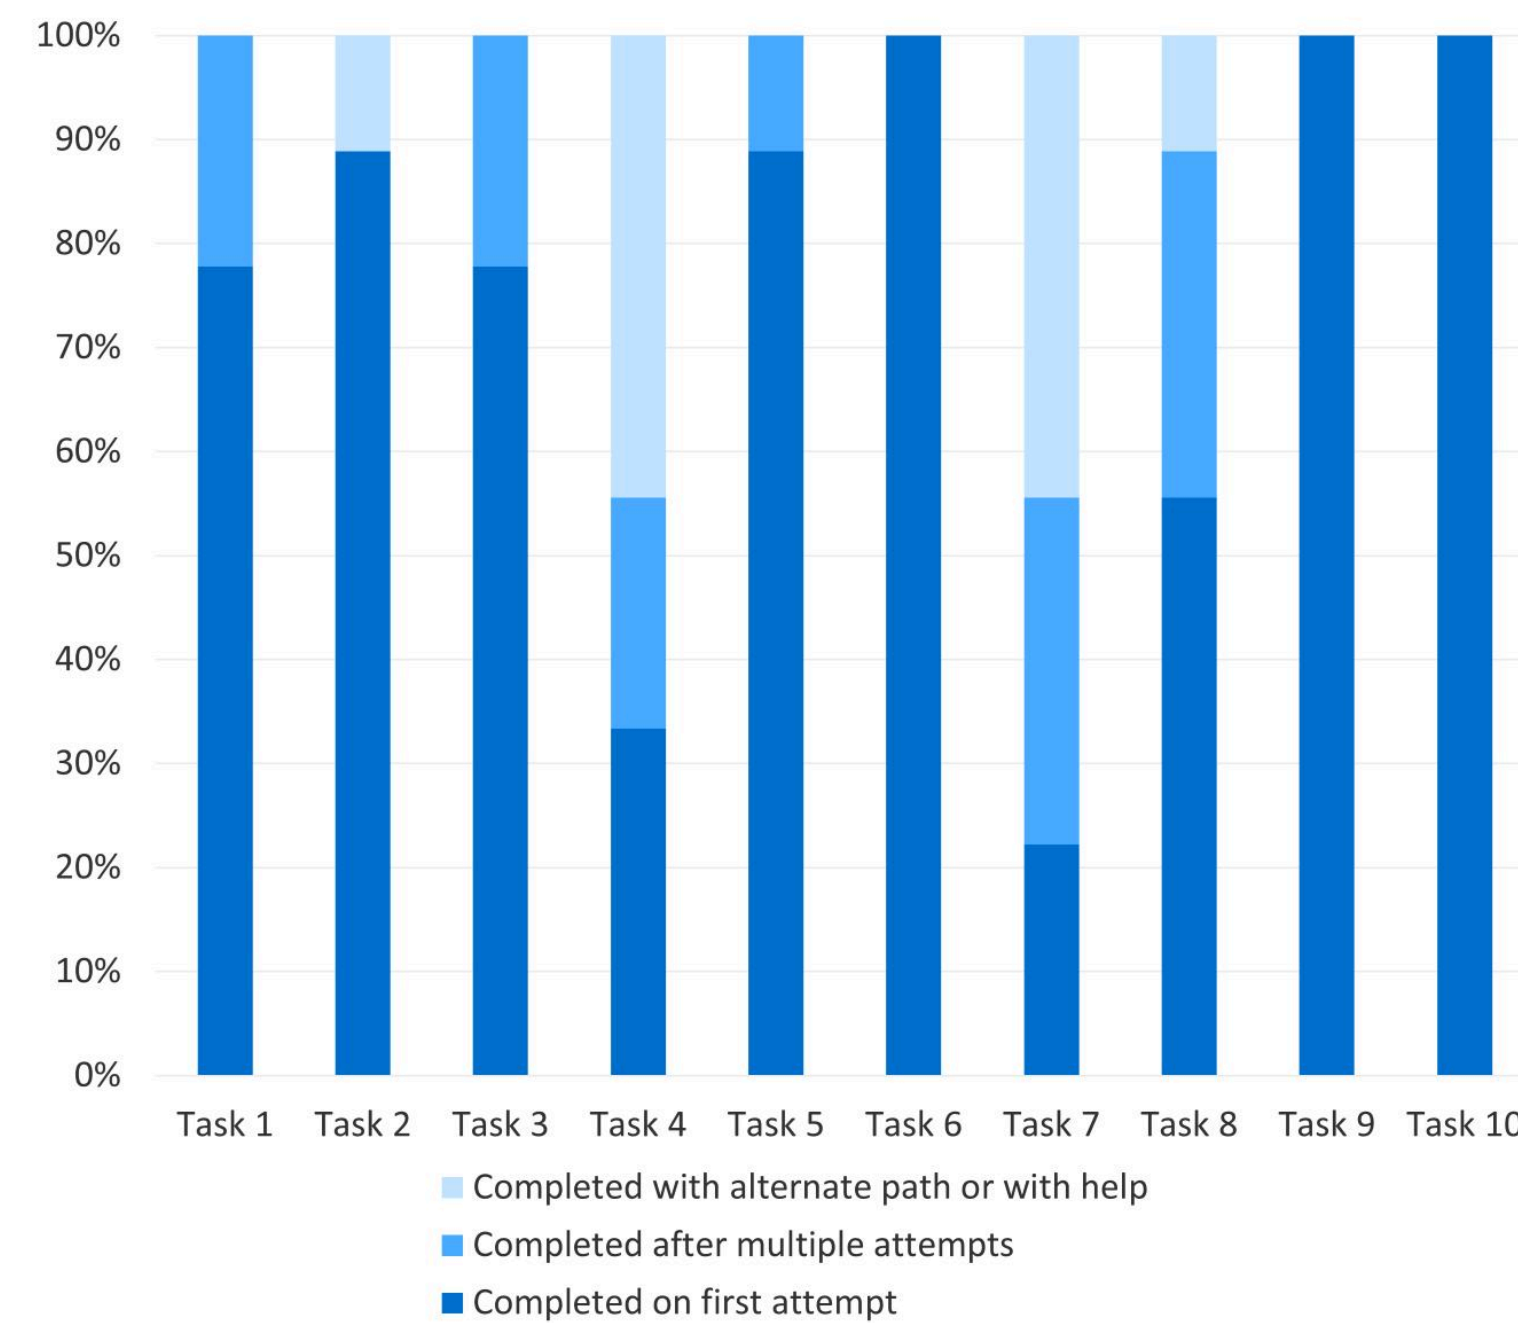

The Sales Team can consult with clients on how to meet spending needs, adjust payment strategy and maximize Cash Flow.

The tool also breaks down complicated specifics of Membership Rewards, demonstrating how to maximize points.

Task Completion At a Glance
